This story was originally published in Day One, a weekly literary journal dedicated to short fiction and poetry from emerging writers.

Cooke and Diana go out on a limb, inviting their old pal Jeezer to Hollywood for a job interview that even he can't mess up. Then, somehow, he does. Soon the couple is regretting their welcome, as they find themselves with a long-term, unemployed houseguest. To their relief, Jeezer falls for Anna, a striking and eccentric neighbor who helps him use his photography hobby to launch a new career. Things are starting to look up as the foursome go on vacation to the desert, where Jeezer can photograph the landscape's dusty beauty. But when they meet an odd, slightly creepy man and Anna goes missing, Cooke, Diana, and a depressed, drunken Jeezer wonder if Anna just dumped him—or if there's something more ominous going on.
