Reprinted here is a selection of classic works - Campbell's study on Arabian medicine and its influence on medieval Europe; Bukhsh's papers which deal with Indian and Islamic questions of enduring value; and three of O'Leary's studies which provide a trove of knowledge for those interested in Islamic philosophy and history. These works will be of service to the student of medieval Western history and to those who are interested in the development of Islam in such a way that can be co-ordinated with modern European history.
