What If Everyone Lived Next Door to Jesus: And Other Meditations from a Missionary's Heart Gary Stone

Nothing beats a riveting missionary story. And missionary Gary T. Stone retells events from his life as a Christian and his work in missions like no one else can. The book is filled with gripping tales and is punctuated with many lighter moments. These include: A stomach-churning tightrope walk across quicksand. A loving big brother who takes a beating to introduce a future missionary to the power of grace and mercy. The sad fate of a Guatemalan beggar who rejects free medical treatment. A large glass beaker that brims with blood as a Mayan priest sacrifices animal after animal. Gary Stone is very much a storyteller. And at the foundation of each tale lie Gary's wry, gentle humor and the tenderness he has for God and His children. Much like Jesus Himself, Gary uses everyday situations to explain a much bigger truth. Once you read a story such as "The Christmas Buzzard", you'll understand his true talent for seeing spiritual principles in the least likely of circumstances.
