An Irish Catholic, Mary "Ethel" Rita Connor was born on Aug. 8, 1908 in Washington DC. Both of her parents were of Irish descent. In 1927, blue-eyed Ethel captured the heart of Raymond "Guss" Augusterfer, a steam-fitter from Washington. This is their story - the story of Ethel Connor and Raymond Augusterfer as told through their original letters from 1927 thru 1929.

The year is 1928. Communication was difficult. Not every home had a telephone, and very few families had an automobile. In order to mail a letter or send a telegram, one had to walk to the local post office. There were no cell phones, no texting - "Hon, did you catch the train on time?" Rain or shine, Ethel walked to the train station on weekends, not knowing if Guss had made the train from Hagerstown.

When my father passed away in 2013, a box of letters came into my possession. As I randomly read each one, Guss and Ethel's love touched my heart in such a way that I became intrigued and wanted to know everything about them. Did they marry and have children? Did they grow old together? Did Guss ever buy a boat? How long did Guss work as a steam fitter? There were so many unanswered questions. This book not only contains the letters, but my journey in searching for their daughter Patricia.
